TURF WINNERS.

Mashington, D. C., the question of the value of carbonate of ammonia as a leavening agent in bread, or as used in baking powders came up for discussion, in which Prof Barker, of the University of Pennsylvania, and president of the society; Dr. Richardson, late of the United States Department of Aggientiture in Washington, Dr. Wm. McMurtrie, late Prof. of Chemistry in the University of Himois Dr. E. H. Bartler, late Chemist of the Brooklyn, N. Y. Board of Realth, and Prof. of Chemistry of the Long Island College, and others took part.

The consensus of opinion was overwhelming in favor of the employment of ammonia. It was stated as a fact that ammonia rendered the gluten of the flour more soluble than the original gluten, and that the bread in which this action was produced by carbonate of ammonia, and its complete expulsion from the bread in the process of baking, it is one of the most useful, most healthful and most valuable leavening agents known.

These concensions are borne out by the very elaborate and exchaustive experiments made by Prof. J. W. Mallet, of the Valuace's teating agents known.
